There was a bright fire on Arcadia Heights Tuesday night and from town it looked as if a building were burning. Just a large pile of brush and leaves in fiames. No damage done, tut it required hard work on the part of half a lozen men for some time to keep the flames away from the buildings.

Our weather continues to be more than fine, but is dry, very dry, indeed, and a rain, a good rain, is badly needed. Sunday night it clouded up and there was promise of a soaker but there was only enough fell to lay the dust. The situation is growing serious; many wells are dry and the water supply in some sections very limited.
